well and strong and healthy.

The Roman beauties of old knew the tremendous hygienic value of the ablution. As a result they were of superb development, strong and lithe of limb and with complexions of the white hyacinth and rose carnation.

Bathing is the cheapest kind of beautifying, the main expenditure being that of time. Besides, it is not a demoralizing method of acquiring prettiness.

like using eyebrow pencils and dipping in rouge pots. Suppose you follow in the wake of those wise old Roman dames and damsels and see what you can accomplish with a small outfit composed of a good flesh brush, a bar of

A hot scrubbing with suds once a week is all right for the removal of dust, but the flesh should be gone over briskly each day. When I suggest fifteen minutes for the bath I do not mean that you should put in a quarter of an hour in the scrubbing process, but that within fifteen minutes you can finish the task, rubbing the flesh with a coarse towel until it glows and tingles.

Just what kind of a bath will benefit you most must be determined by experience. A nervous, high-strung girl never should indulge in extremely cold baths. These are all right for individuals of strong constitution, who have plenty of strength and nerve vitality. The cold bath is a powerful stimulant, aiding circulation and bringing a fine glow. But it is only for the strong.

As a cleansing agent the cold bath amounts to little or nothing, although a hard, vigorous rubbing with the towel will do a good deal toward fluffing off foreign matter. For good, old-fashioned cleanliness look to warm water, soap and a flesh brush.

The bath in the morning is the best.

It need not be taken in a tub. In fact, it is better to have the scrubbing in gallons of warm water only once or twice a week. Fill the wash basin with tepid water, add a handful of salt and a little borax. Bathe the face first, drying it thoroughly. Rub an arm with a coarse quickly. Bathe all arm with a coarse cloth or flesh brush, and dry immediately.* In this way the body is not chilled. Five minutes is sufficient for a speedy sponging. Five minutes of hard rubbing should follow. The salt bath stimulates the process of elimination and the skin throws off its tiny particles of decayed matter with activity. When you are finished with the bath you will feel strong and bright of mind, and will have a deal more self-respect than if you had climbed out of bed and got into your at first, but when you become accustomed to it you will enjoy it. Go to bed fifteen minutes earlier or get up fifteen minutes earlier. The bath will do you more good than an extra cat nap just before the breakfast bell rings. A bath brush. Use a coarse wash rag or Turkish towel and see that you have plenty, so that fresh ones can be had every day. A good flesh brush can be bought for one dollar. It will last for a number of years if properly taken care of. After using, rinse with clear tepid water.

Never use a sponge for bathing. It is impossible to keep a sponge really clean and they are fine breeding nests for microbes. Use a coarse wash rag instead.

Two or three tablespoonfuls of pure orax added to a bathtub of water will Make the scrubbing more cleansing and the skin will feel soft and nice afterwards.

Avoid cheap, highly scented soaps. This is most important. To leave soap on the skin is to excite an irritation the cuticle which is absolutely underable to a woman of nervous disposition. A bath spray is convenient and not at all expensive. Very good ones can be bought for 75 cents.

If you can afford it always use linen wers. The cheap ones of cotton do not absorb moisture so readily. Become accustomed to the coarse ones for the body, but do not use them on the face, as the more delicate epidermis will not endure harsh treatment.

Scrofula is a bad thing to inherit or acquire, but there is this about it—Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cures even the worst cases.

PROLIFIC SHORTHORNS.

A Stock Raiser's Experience With This Profitable Breed.
I send you the names and produce table of four Shorthorn cows, says an Iowa stock raiser in Breeder's Gazette. While I do not consider these cows as individually being very remarkable for fecundity or longevity, yet they have proved very profitable breeding cows—and their families I think a great deal. I have in the case of imported Rowfant Kirklevington III made a recapitulation of credits to my Kirklevington account (descendants of the old cow), and when it is taken into consideration that many of the females were sold young and at times—from 1801 to 1897—when Shorthorns, I believe, were at their lowest, I think this sketch should be an object lesson to any ambitious farmer or breeder. The percentage of bulls in this case was small, but there were enough sold to pay for the keep of all the family with a good interest on the investment, leaving the females net profit.

It is but fair to say that these cattle are not more profitable than many I have owned and still own, but I have kept more of the female increase, and they have multiplied rapidly. I have on account of my hogs fed some steers every winter for the past 30 years, and it is a lamentable fact that in Iowa I find that the quality of cattle is not improving as it should. In fact, I fear it is deteriorating. The farmers generally seem not to appreciate the value of using only pure bred bulls.

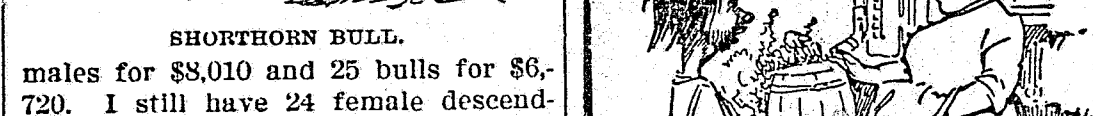

I purchased Rowfant Kirklevington III, calving Sept. 11, 1877, purchased by me April, 1885, was killed in her seventeenth year on account of losing her teeth. She produced eight cow calves and six bulls.

I purchased Rowfant Kirklevington III and three heifer calves in 1885 and have sold from their produce 20 females.

The Folly of Wisdom.
"It seems to me that poets make a whole lot of absurd declarations and manage to have them accepted as words of wisdom. Here, for instance, is this line, 'It's folly to be wise.' How can any man with ordinary sense believe that?"

"Well, I don't know. There may be a good deal in it, after all." It is claimed, you know, that country intellectuals people have hay fever.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Desperation.

SHORTHORN BULL.
males for $8,010 and 25 bulls for $8,720. I still have 24 female descendants, including Duchess of Walnut Hill, granddaughter of Rowfant Kirklevington III, which is now in her sixteenth year and is strong and vigorous and on July 1 dropped her thirteenth calf. The sixteenth Duchess of Walnut Hill, now in her ninth year, is just near calving her seventh calf. I also have four young bulls. Many of the females were sold young, and I have no record of what they have done, but the above is the result of my purchase in 1885 of the cow imported Rowfant Kirklevington III and three heifers.

London Duchess of Walnut Hill.
calved June 20, 1885, has produced five bulls and eight heifers and is again safe with calf.

Fennell Duchess of Walnut Hill.
calved July 14, 1884, purchased in 1887, has dropped in my possession six heifer calves and six bull calves.

Duchess Velvet Eyes V. calved Aug. 7, 1880, purchased when past 6 years old, has produced in my possession eight calves, is strong and vigorous and well along with calf again.

The Farmer's Tool Chest.
Mechanical skill on the farm often makes the difference between a neat, convenient and attractive home and a slovenly, dilapidated scene of disorder. There is always a season of the year when the men about the farm have time which could be profitably devoted to repairs and improvements, if they had the necessary skill for such work.

A chest well stocked with tools and hands trained to use them would be the best investment any farmer could make. It would pay every country boy who intends to devote his life to farming to serve a six months' apprenticeship to some good mechanic before considering himself fitted for a life on the farm.

Many farmers seem to act on the theory that it does not matter how awkward and bungling a piece of work is if it only answers the purpose, but it costs more to do a thing properly, if one has the necessary skill, than it does to do it without any regard for beauty and neatness.

Permanent Pastures.
For a permanent pasture under most circumstances the following kinds (in proper proportions) would make a good mixture: Timothy, June grass (blue grass), fescue, redtop, tall fescue and perennial ryegrass. In localities and soils where the Kentucky blue grass flourishes nothing better can be found. A Kentucky farmer gives the following mixture where an immediate pasture is wanted: "Blue grass seed, eight pounds; orchard grass, four pounds; timothy, four pounds, and red clover, six pounds—altogether 22 pounds of seed for one acre." Three thousand species of grass are known to botanists, but out of that whole number only about 30 have been brought into occa-

Half fare on Grand Trunk railway from Berlin, N. H., to Mechanic Falls.

Transportation from Norway village to the place of meeting. Norway Center overlooking Norway Lake is delightful for situation.

We think little, if we do not talk about ourselves.

The fact that Holman Day's first book of verse attained the sale of nearly ten thousand copies in a year and half following its publication predisposes readers to feel interest in the new book of verse from the Maine poet, which is announced for immediate publication by Small, Maynard & Company. In the second volume, which he has named Pine Tree Ballads, the author has gathered the story-poems upon which he has been at work for the past two years. The publishers believe that the new book, in point of workmanship and interest, is far ahead of Day's first volume, and though in Maine attracted attention all over the country by its originality and its crisp delineations of character. There is more narrative and less dialect in the new book. Most of the rhymed tales are new in print, though for many years they have been the unwritten classics of the Maine countryside and have excited gales of laughter in all the rural grocer's stores from Quoddy to Kittery. There are no dull spots in the new volume. Mr. Day has selected the material from a mass that would have made two volumes of the size of Pine Tree Ballads. The humor is of the quaint and suggestive variety that has made novels on rural life so universally popular.

THE TOUCH DOES IT

Benson's Plasters are like your other friends—they hate to see you in pain or in weakness and are dog-died hearing you complain about it. They want to cure you and send you along to your business—whole and happy. They can do it and will do it. Try them on. What for? Why for any cough or cold you may be troubled with, or any bothering pain or ache, or worry with kidneys or liver. Possibly some old clutch of muscular rheumatism renders an arm or a leg wretchedly stiff and slow. For anything that makes the machine work slow and stiff, with pain maybe in the motion of it, clasp a Benson's Plaster squarely on the bad spot. They are the get-out-to-morrow plasters—not the sort that go to sleep on your skin like a cat on a cushion. There is comfort and speedy relief in the touch of them. No other external remedy, no matter how made or how called, is worthy to live in the same street with Benson's Plasters. Pains and ailments melt away under them as a sheet of ice does under the Spring sun. You cannot foretell the weather but you can always foretell the effect of Benson's Plasters; it is as sure as the effect of a hot brick in a hungry man's stomach. But look out for substitutes. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Played Out.

That "played out," "done up" feeling makes life miserable for every sufferer from kidney ills, backaches, headaches and urinary troubles, painful and annoying.

Doan's Kidney Pills

bring new life and activity, remove the pain and cure the cause, from common backache to dangerous diabetes.

Mr. L. T. Wilson, sailmaker on Market street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I contracted a very bad cold which affected me in the loins and in the upper part of the chest, causing distressing lameness, some urinary difficulty and I was quite stiffened up. As I had read considerable about Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Phillips' pharmacy and got a box. They went to the spot at once, and I did not use but part of the box before I was quite over my trouble. I gave the balance of my box to a friend, and there was plenty to cure him, although neither of us are very lightweights. I am prepared from my personal experience and from their effects on others to highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. You can refer to me."

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Memorial Sunday.

The members of Harry Rust Post, No. 54, G. A. R., and Relief Corp., No. 45, attended Memorial services at the Congregational church, Sunday. Most of the members were present, but in looking over the two bodies some of the faces known to belong were missed. The sermon by Rev. B. S. Valuable Papers.

Several bound files of the earlier Norway papers belonging to the late George L. Beal have been found stored away with other books. His daughters have written to an expert in ancient and rare publications and he estimated them valued at ten dollars a volume.

Mrs. Ed. Kneeland was sick the past week with the grip.

A. H. Briggs of Mechanic Falls is working in the shoe factory.

Harry Howland has been spending a vacation at his home in Gorham, N. H.

Fansie Tallon, Georgianna Roborge and Annie Guay visited Berlin, N. H., recently.

Dr. H. W. Watson, who located here a few months since as a veterinarian, has removed his business to Haverhill, Mass.

The barber shops in town will keep open until 12 o'clock Thursday night and will not be opened at all on Friday, May 30th.

Eugene Fifield, formerly of Norway but who is now employed in Lynn, Mass., is spending a few days with Dr. A. N. French and family.

Clarence B. Pike of Livermore Falls was in town the past week. He was here to take the Norway high school's graduating class pictures.

Allie Cook has installed a new electric fan in his barber shop. It was put in just time to give it a fair trial Thursday and Friday, and is just what the doctor ordered.

Mrs. A. N. French and daughter Myrt, who were spending a few days last week in McShane's, were telegraphed on Thursday the doctor's ill health and returned home.

Mrs. H. L. Home sprained her ankle severely the past week and for several days could not step on her foot. She was able to play the organ at the Memorial service Sunday.

Prof. William R. Chapman has announced his intention of coming to Norway, June 23rd, with his company of well known musicians and giving a concert in the Opera House.

Mrs. J. A. Walker and children are visiting relatives and friends in Otisfield and vicinity, and will not join Mr. Walker in South Deerfield, Mass., for a month or six weeks. The furniture and furnishings have been sent on to that place.

Mrs. Mary Penley Churchill, formerly of Norway, who for the past few years, has been connected with institutions seven years as a matron of the Home for aged women of Auburn, and the past two years in the Wardwell Home in Saco, has severed her connection with the same and will remain with her brother, C. S. Penley, whose wife is in poor health.

The Junior Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist society, observed Sunday as Memorial day. They marched to the cemetery with wreaths and flowers and decorated the graves of sixteen of the departed members of the society. They held a very pretty and impressive service at the grave of Nellie Dunbar, the only deceased member of the Junior Union. This was under the personal direction of their superintendent, Della M. Noyes.

This was what a Brunswick correspondent says of Harry Nevers in the ball game of Bowdoin U. of M.: "Harry Nevers, the 'Only Nevers,' came from the Bowdoin Medical School at Portland to help out Alma Mater and well did he carry out his purpose. Few college boys can equal and still keep his place in Nevers in his position. The presence of our friend at first gave us all the effect of instilling confidence in our men."

George Leavitt, who was formerly employed in the shoe shop here but who lately has resided in Auburn, a few weeks ago is said to have stolen an overcoat and in attempting to evade the police of Auburn came to Norway in disguise. He was recognized, however, by a Norway young man, who notified Sheriff Bassett, and he was placed under arrest and returned to Auburn to await trial. Leavitt got into trouble while here before but as Sheriff Bassett could locate him he had left town.

Letter to John P. Cullinan.

Norway, Me.

Dear Sir: There are a thousand ways to cheat in our business, and whether our neighbors suspect us of cheating or not, depends on ourselves, our talking face, our eye, our walk, our standing straight up or crooked, our neighbors know all about us without being told!

We are pretty well known. We are no infant—149 years old—began business on this little island (New York) in 1754. Have been making paint and a lot else since in the world ever since. And there isn't a man, alive or dead, that wouldn't testify for us, if you should stir him up.

We grind lead and zinc in linseed oil by machinery, all together. That's our business. We live on the profit—machinery over hand-work. Painters mix their paint by hand—they imagine they do—they half mix it. We grind together: whole-mix. Better and costs less money.

We are the very best friend the painter has, if he knows it—yes, whether he knows it or not. He can't afford not to know it. We are the painter's customer's friend. We save them both money.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devos & Co.

SOUTH PARIS.

"Pinafors" by Local Talent.

The opera "Pinafors" was presented by the choicest musical talent of the two towns to a well-filled house in New Hall Thursday and Friday evenings.

The first scene was laid at noon on the quarter deck of H. M. S. Pinafors, stationed off Portsmouth; the second at night at the same place. The scenery was especially painted for the occasion and the costumes were from a well-known Boston costumeur.

Pinafors has been released ever since the winter and Thursday and Friday evenings the results of the untiring work was given to large and very appreciative audiences.

The cast of characters was as follows: The Rev. Mr. Joseph Foster, First Lord of the Admiralty; Verne Whitman, Capt. Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafors; Ralph Backstraw, able seaman; James Dunn, Bill Bickley, boatswain's mate; George Briggs, Rob Bickett, carpenter's mate; Ed. L. Little, Tom Lacker, midshipman; P. A. and Ed. Little, Sergeants of Marines; Roy Foster, Josephine, the captain's daughter; Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin; Sue Wheeler, Little Buttercup, of Portsmouth; Everett, a woman; No. 6 Andrews.

The leading parts were ably supported by a strong chorus and the opera passed off very smoothly and pleasantly. Between the scenes, Mr. A. R. Morse, the well known reader, gave two humorous sketches and Raymond Penfold, "the midshipmite," only six years old, entertained the audience with tambourine solos.

Mrs. Cora Briggs, pianist and Carl Briggs, violinist, acted as accompanists for the evening. A great deal is due Miss Annie Stockbridge who assisted in the direction and staging of the opera. While the expenses were very heavy, new scenery and special costumes being necessary, Mizpah Assembly, Pythian Sisterhood, under whose auspices the opera was given, has good reason for congratulating on the success both in presentation and in the financial outcome, as it will net a very tidy sum for the treasury.

Wendell Rounds was at home from Bates to attend the opera's Pinafors.

Anna Stockbridge, who has been visiting friends here, has returned to Portland.

Mrs. Bibber of Lewiston was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harriet Barnes, a few days last week.

Master Harlan Dennison entertained his young friends at his birthday party one afternoon last week.

The family of George Cook went to Buckfield Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Cook's mother, Mrs. Charity Cooper.

During the two weeks of dry weather forest fires were raging both north and south of us. The air was filled with leaves and light breezes from the adjoining mountains. How much timber was destroyed I am not informed but doubtless hundreds of acres were burnt over. Crews of men worked hard to prevent it from spreading still further. The rain has done much good. The trees are in blossom and all nature looks refreshed. Saturday evening there was a heavy thunder shower. The lightning was very vivid.

 Mrs. Jane E. Lovejoy.
 On May 20, Mrs. Jane E. Lovejoy, formerly of North Bridgton, passed away at the home of her son, Hiram Lovejoy, of Falmouth, New Jersey.

While she had been in failing health for two or three years her death was sudden, being the result of a severe paralytic stroke. The body was laid beside that of her husband in the family lot at South Waterford.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. This tube gets inflamed by a cold, a catarrh of the throat, or by a general condition of the system. It is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; ring cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. J. J. CHENEY CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

RUMFOLD FALLS.
 A. & M. Hall Dedicated.
 Blazing Star Lodge, F. & A. M., No. 30, dedicated its new hall at Rumfold Falls, last Friday evening. Formerly its home was in the village of Rumfold, where it was organized in 1819, but it moved to the Falls in 1898.

The ceremony of dedication was performed by Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Hon. Alfred S. Kimball of Norway. He was assisted by Grand Chaplain, H. Brooks, D. D., of South Paris; Grand Marshal, B. E. Bradbury of Norway; Grand Tyler, W. O. Carney of Portland; Deputy Grand Master, William Burnham of Lewiston; and D. D. G. M., Don Gates of Dixfield.

The membership of this lodge is now about 300. The main hall is elegantly furnished in hardwood and upholstered furniture. On the same floor is another small hall which will be used for business meetings. A parlor, a smoking room, two parlors, a billiard room, a preparation and toilet room are also on this floor. On the above floors is the banquet hall, kitchen, cupboard and Knights Templar hall. The floors are finished throughout in polished hard wood.

A flag staff has been put up on the roof of Hotel Rumfold. A. E. Morrison has been elected secretary of the board of health.

The Continental Paper Bag Co. are to do their own printing in the near future. They expect to employ fifty hands.

The Rumfold Falls base ball team opened the season on Thursday by a game with the Dixfield at Dixfield. The Dixfield won with a score of 9 to 6.

No public man should allow himself to be misled by orators. A great many people cheer simply for the fun of it.

The Summer Girl of 1902. Summer fashions are decidedly picturesque. Full, flowing, trailing skirts, bodices with large falling collars or draped fichus and elbow-sleeves will rule in the evolution of frocks of the ethereal summer stuffs. They are elaborated with intricate insets of fine laces; and Paris says that many of the summer gowns will be made with sashes instead of belts. Accordingly, all sorts of lovely sash ribbons, among which are the Pompadour patterns of dainty posies, are shown. With streamers fluttering over billowy frounces, the sashes will add much to the graceful beauty of summer modes.

One of the most delightful characteristics of the new styles is their femininity; and the summer girl of 1902, in her beruffled and lace-trimmed gown, her rose-enraptured picturesque flat hat or gracefully drooping curves, her flowered parasol and mittens will be a vision charming to behold.

Dr. Digio.

In a little borough known as the Mountain district lived a little scrawny man of diminutive stature known as Dr. Digio from his habit of digging roots for the cure of certain diseases at which he claimed to be an expert.

Dr. Digio was a cripple for life, being deprived of the use of one arm, and like most such unfortunate he possessed spunk and courage to nearly or quite atone for the loss of limbs. During his entire existence he was never known to exhibit the least fear on any occasion or in the least disconcerted under the most trying circumstances.

One day, he being at work on the steep ascent of Rattlesnake mountain in company with several of his neighbors who had imbibed pretty freely, a plan was formed during his temporary absence to put his courage to the test, and for one to cause him to exhibit some signs of fear.

So one of the party known as Lumpy was arrayed in tattered to personate the arch enemy of mankind, and placed in ambush to await Digio's return.

All were about their work as usual when suddenly the goblin appeared, causing the whole crew with the exception of the intended victim to drop their implements and flee in all directions.

Digio kept steadily on with his work until the specter was within a few feet when he stepped slowly about and accosted him in his usual commonplace style, "Who be you and what are ye arter?"

"I am the Prince of Darkness," replied the goblin, "and have come to claim my own. I'll clasp you in my arms and fly with you to my infernal regions."

"Well, Mr. Devil," calmly replied Digio, "I don't owe you nothin' and never had no deal with ye and don't want none, so be off with ye self afore ye get yer head smashed!"

The goblin now extended his arms and advanced upon his intended prey when, true to his word, Digio let fly his short handled ax with full force which just missed the mark and stuck fast in a large hemlock in the rear.

"Now you are mine!" roared the goblin in sepulchral tones as he leaped toward his plucky adversary. "Not yet," replied Digio, as he seized a stout club and with a well directed blow laid him prostrate. Nor did he stop there but continued to deal telling blows.

The goblin now called loudly for quarters. "Don't kill me," he howled. "I'm only Lumpy." "No you ain't nuther," replied Digio. "You are the devil, and bein' as I've got about it, I'll make a bonin' on ye now," which would surely have been done but for the interference of the crew in ambush, who up to this moment had been looking on, convulsed with laughter. Poor Lumpy was disabled for several months and Digio was rewarded for his prowess by numerous presents, which were a Godsend to one in his destitute condition. He lived to a good age without ever again having his courage doubted or put to test.

First Prohibitory Law in Maine.
 According to the following the first prohibitory liquor law was established in Maine more than 250 years ago.

Under the provincial government of Georges, a portion of territory between the Kennebec and Piscataquis rivers formed a province named New Somersetshire. Commissioners appointed to manage the affairs of the province met at Saco on the 25th of March, 1693. The court continued in session several days. Folsom's history of Saco and Biddeford published in 1820, gives among others the following records of the courts:

"March 27, 1693. It is ordered that any man doth sell strong liquors or wine shall suffer his neighbor, laborer or servant to continue drinking in the house except men invited or laborers upon the working day for one hour at dinner, a stranger or lodger there, the said offence being seen by one justice of the peace with his limits, or constable or proved by two witnesses before the justice of the peace, such sellers of strong drink or wine shall forfeit for every offence ten shillings."

Destructive Forest Fires.

One of the most severe forest fires ever known in this section was raging on Rattlesnake mountain in Conway, which is in plain sight of our village. Several thousand acres have been burned over and much young timber destroyed. The fire started on the North Conway side of the mountain, ran over the top to Redstone and down through East Conway and to Green Hill. Had it not been for the heavy shower, Friday night, the result would have been much worse.

A fire also started on the Brownfield road just below Fryeburg station, Friday, and did considerable damage to a timber lot owned by the Portland Star Match Co. It was subdued about night.

EAST HIRAM.

Lightning Caused Fire.

On Saturday evening as Renben S. Moulton of Hiram was milking, the lightning struck a tree near by, tearing off some clapboards on the house but doing no other damage, entered the barn, 38x78, igniting a mow of ten tons of hay. Mr. Moulton was badly shocked and stunned, but succeeded in getting his cows out of the barn. The flames prevented him from reaching two horses and they perished. For some time the heat prevented access to the well, and the house, 45 feet distant, was cleared but the wind suddenly changed and the neighbors by hard fighting at close range succeeded in saving it, it being 20 feet from the house which was also burned. The building burnt cost $1,000; insurance, $500. The contents of the barn including hay, horses, carriages and tools were valued at $500, with no insurance.
